CD Program Funded

Word was received by Mayor Gene Blake Tuesday afternoon from Cong. W. R. Poage in Washington that Cameron's application for funding under the new Better Community Development Act has been approved in the amount of $136,000.

Funding is for the first year of the city's development program.

The city's plans for the first year of community development were approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Plans, which will be handled by the Community Development Agency, call for funding for start of a new sewer system in Alabama Town, start of a new park and playground in the O. J. Thomas School vicinity, and start of a program of demolishing dilapidated housing and clearing lots for new construction.

A. W. McCullin, CDA executive director, said his agency has been surveying the city for burned out, substandard housing which is vacant, and compiling information for that phase of the plan.

The Agency is also working on information on property to be acquired for the playground, and will be appraising the property for purchase.

And some plans have been drawn up already for the sewer system and construction plans will be finalized so the Agency can secure bids on construction.

Trustees Vote

For Estimates

On Gym Repair

Cameron school trustees met in special session Monday morning, taking a tour of the high school gym before the meeting to view facilities in the shower and dressing rooms.

During the meeting they voted to get estimates on repairing the present facilities in the shower and dressing rooms.

Trustees also turned down a request by the local tennis association for building four additional tennis courts on the school campus. Vote was 4-2 to turn down the request, with board members Forrest Sapp, John Henderson, Billy Hornung, and Joe Walzel voting against building the courts.

At the regular monthly meeting on April 14, the request had been made by the association, costs to be shared by civic clubs and the school, along with individuals.

6 Young Men Charged Here With Possession

Six young men were arrested in Cameron Friday and charged before Justice of the Peace Jess Brock's court with possession of marijuana. They were arrested by Cameron police.

Placed on $500 bond were Donnie Fikes, 17; Frank Borgas, 17; Rudy Ariazola, 24; Jimmy Lattimore, 21; and Maynard Vernon Khal, 20. Placed on $1,000 bond was Alvin Rosemond. All are residents of Cameron with the exception of Khal, who is a soldier from Florida stationed at Fort Hood.

Khal and Fikes were arrested on South College in Cameron by Sgt. Kent Butler and Officer Maurice Lowrey. The other four were arrested on the old Temple highway west of Skeezix Cafe by Officers Lowrey and Johnny Sargent.

1-Car Accident Injures Driver

A one-car accident Friday at 6 p.m. sent a local man to the hospital, where he is still being treated for chest injuries.

Driver of the car was David Lee Pittman of Rt. 2 Cameron. He was taken to St. Edward Hospital after his car ran off the road and hit a tree.

Two passengers in the car, Jeffrey Brooks, 15, and Eldridge Brooks, 10, also of Rt. 2, were slightly injured with cuts and bruises. They were not hospitalized.

Rep. Bingham is presenting the state flag that has flown over the state capitol.

Other events planned for the 15th biennial homecoming include a big parade at 2 p.m., barbecue served at the school cafeteria, and the meeting of all Rogers exes at 8 p.m. in the school gym.

Credit Exams

Available To

Seniors At TJC

The registration deadline for credit by examination tests at Temple Junior College is next week, Thursday, May 1. Anice Naler, director of Counseling and Testing, said.

TJC offers examinations in college credit in more than fifty courses. The college examination date is May 17, but students must register by the May 1 deadline in order to be able to take the tests.

Students may earn a maximum of 15 semester hours through the credit by examination procedure. Students who believe they are qualified by experience or previous training may take the special examinations which, depending upon the course, may be subject to area examinations of the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) or TJC's institution examinations.

School Proposal Would Cause Tax Increases

AUSTIN

Computer figures confirm that Gov. Dolph Briscoe's school finance proposal would cause local property tax increases, while a bill sponsored by Rockdale Rep. Dan Kubiak brings in new education funds at the state level.

In a speech last week before the Taylor Rotary Club, Kubiak said Texas Education Agency computers projected Briscoe's "weighted-pupil" bill would make necessary $1 billion statewide in new local property taxes.

"In Taylor, for instance, the Governor's bill would force a substantial tax increase unless some programs were cut back," Kubiak said. "On the other hand, the approach used in my bill and the Texas State Teacher Association bill would shift the need for new money to the state instead of local taxes."

Kubiak said the House Public Education Committee had recently approved a Kubiak motion favoring the program approach, indicating likely rejection in the committee of the weighted-pupil bill.

The program approach favored by Kubiak and TSTA allocates funds on the basis of teaching program, while the weighted-pupil bill favored by the Governor assigns education costs to each pupil.

"The need is now for action since there is little time left in the legislature," Kubiak said. "We cannot wait another two years for school finance reform."

Thieu Quits...

South Vietnam's Nguyen Van Thieu, president of the collapsing Saigon regime, blamed the U. S. for almost all Vietnam's troubles and resigned Monday.

He said the Nixon Administration had promised aid which was not delivered. Congress is axing a Ford request for a billion dollars in humane and military aid. Congress will probably finance about $300 millions for humanitarian aid and withdrawal of American nationals.

Thieu suggested some secret agreements either through Secretary of State Kissinger or the White House. President Ford Monday night said he had read the correspondence between Thieu and the former President Nixon and found no commitments other than on the record. It seems the communists will now dominate a Saigon coalition instead of merely sharing it. Thieu's resignation was inevitable, but he waited until a second alternate may be the only one who can negotiate with the insurgents from the North.

Withdrawal of South Viet forces became a rout, abandoning uncounted inventories of field equipment to the Communists. Congress slashes military aid requests strengthened by the fact South Vietnam military leadership was incompetent in dealing with this withdrawal.

It is rather like a whole South Vietnam experience; nobody knows quite how to fight this war, how to settle it, how to win or lose it. Thieu's resignation is another ill-timed maneuver.

And the U.S. gets the blame from both sides.

First-Order Resilience...

Don't be surprised to see John Connally back in the same Washington which produced a grand jury that indicted him and a trial jury which found him innocent of charges of accepting a bribe.

The supercharged atmosphere of Washington during Watergate apparently brought Connally to trial there, other charges being dropped when the trial jury returned its verdict.

President Ford in a television interview Monday night said Connally may sometime in the future return to the Ford Administration in some capacity.

It is interesting also to note that Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller has recently purchased a 6,000-acre ranch in South Texas, the part of Texas Connally calls home.

Even after Connally's acquittal, it seemed inconceivable the future held any promise for his once-ascendant political star. But Ford's acknowledgement of Connally's potential and a certain charisma give a John Connally the resilience of the first order.

If Connally can survive assassination in Dallas and multiple felony charges in a somewhat hostile environment of Washington, he may even reclaim the national prominence he held before the Nixon Administration disintegrated. Connally is the only one of those indicted in that era who has been exonerated in court.

National elections are a year-and-a-half away, political conventions something more than a year. It is safe to anticipate John Connally's return in an unsettled political era.

JAIL: NOT REFUND FOR MEDICAL SWINDLERS

REP. EDWARD I. KOCK (N.Y.)

In view of the Medicare and Medicaid fraud that exists in what is a nationwide scandal, I should like to bring to the attention of our colleagues the enclosed article. (The condensed article follows):

The Health Care Scandal (By Dan Thomasson and Carl West)

During a three-month period ending last June 26 states reported to the U. S. Health Education and Welfare Department (HEW) 954 cases of suspected fraud in the Federal-State Medicaid program for the poor.

Only 47 of these cases were ever turned over to public prosecutors.

Although required by Federal regulation to do so, a few States don't even bother to file reports on suspected fraud, and some that do only provide incomplete and inaccurate information.

Also puzzling to congressional experts and HEW officials is the fact that in many instances medical care providers suspected of fraud are being permitted to pay back the government without further action being taken against them. Federal law provides that anyone convicted of filing a false Medicaid claim can be imprisoned for one year and fined $10,000.

The first official reports sent to the division beginning last year weren't encouraging. They were sloppy and showed an alarming indifference to the program. Here are two glaring examples:

Twenty-four Michigan medical care providers were suspected of bilking a total of $125,582 from Medicaid either by knowingly overcharging or billing for services not provided. Not a single provider was prosecuted or suspended from the program after all the money was repaid.

In South Carolina one physician repaid the government $57,000 after it was determined he had sent duplicate bills to five Medicaid recipients and another reimbursed the program $49,368 after allegedly submitting false billings of 22 patients. (Excerpts from a letter sent to HEW by Rep. Kock)

"Doctors, nursing homes operators, and others who embezzle the taxpayer and rip off the elderly should be considered as bank robbers or street muggers."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

If Internal Revenue Service can send violators to jail, so should HEW.

Legislature Heads For Wild Finale

Statistics and common sense indicate the 64th Legislature is heading for a wild and crowded finale, and that more bills will die than survive.

This is inevitable with more than 2,200 House bills and joint resolutions and nearly 1,100 Senate bills and joint resolutions introduced. The system is overloaded, and the tabulations of unfinished business on legislative computers effectively turn on the warning lights.

Of about 2,400 House and Senate bills referred to House committees, fewer than 500 have emerged. About 900 bills and important resolutions have been referred to Senate standing committees, and some 500 have come out.

With the exception of constitutional revision, which was effectively and promptly disposed of, most of the session's key business remains unfinished.

Budget bills are still in the Senate Finance and House Appropriations committees.

School finance reform measures are in sub-committees, and seem likely to stay there awhile. Agreement is far from reached on public utility regulatory legislation. Legislators have their hands full in the next six weeks, and the facts are stacked against any easy way out.

STANDARDS COSTLY
Federal water quality standards may cost Texas cities, towns and industries more than $6 billion before 1983, according to a Texas Water Quality Board inventory.

Federal requirements call for complete elimination of pollutional discharges into waters by that date.

The Federal Water Quality Act specifies that every river, stream, creek, lake and coastal area is to be fit for swimming, boating and fishing in eight years.

Texas Water Quality Board estimates the cleanup of city wastewater discharges would cost cities $400 million a year if their part of the deadline is met. Industries would have to come up with another $3 billion, TWQB estimated.

CONSTITUTION SUBMITTED

Final concurrence by the Senate in House amendments to a proposed constitutional revision resolution sent the issue of a new constitution for Texas to a November 4 statewide ballot.

Campaigns already are shaping up for the eight-section article-by-article rewrite proposals, which are virtually identical to the final recommendation before the 1974 Constitutional Convention. Funds will be provided by the legislature for advertising the document and "educating" voters on its provisions.

ALLOWABLE WIDE OPEN

The Railroad Commission again set the oil allowable at 100 per cent for May in spite of a minor decline in crude requests from national buyers.

Next month will be the 38th of wide-open production. East Texas Field, restricted to 86 per cent, is an exception.

COURTS SPEAK

The Court of Criminal Appeals, by a 3-2 vote, upheld the 1973 Texas death penalty law which permits execution for several categories of murder. Thirteen men are on death row at Huntsville prison.

Texas Supreme Court held that a man who lost an eye in an oilfield accident can collect disability insurance only for that specific injury unless he can prove that other physical problems (including traumatic neurosis) are direct results of the eye loss.

AG OPINIONS

A county clerk has authority to issue a marriage license even though it appears applicants have been divorced less than 30 days, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

A bill permitting veterans to defer paying tuitions and fees at colleges while awaiting federal benefits is constitutional.

A county can spend money to maintain and operate parks without holding an election to levy a park tax.

An investigative report of the Texas Real Estate Commission is public information and must be disclosed.

The College Coordinating Board and Vocational Education Board may refuse to renew approval of out-of-district junior college course offerings.

Benefits Increase For Parents

A special outreach effort by the Veterans Administration has resulted in increased benefits for more than half of the 425 parents of World War I veterans on VA's compensation and pension rolls.

Jack Coker, VA Regional Director, explained that parents of veterans who died of service-connected causes are eligible for VA assistance if their income is insufficient for reasonable maintenance. Average age of parents of World War I veterans on VA rolls is 95. More than 40 are 100 years or older.

The outreach program was directed by Administrator of Veterans Affairs Richard L. Roudebush. "While great emphasis is placed on the well being of our younger veterans, the Veteran Administration is not unmindful that it also has a great obligation to its senior citizens," Roudebush said.

state for purpose of placing him for adoption is an unconstitutional infringement on right to travel.

APPOINTMENTS

Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed Tolbert Thurman Crowder of Port Arthur to the board of regents of Lamar University to succeed William Samuel Monroe of Port Arthur who resigned.

Briscoe named Durwood A. Sutton of Grand Prairie to the Texas Turnpike Authority board of directors. Truett Smith of Wylie was elected chairman of the Texas Industrial Commission and John Turner of Houston vice-chairman.

Briscoe reappointed Houston H. Harte of San Antonio, Raymond M. Holliday of Houston and Joseph Zeppa of Tyler to the East Texas State University board of regents.

Nelson A. Clare is a new assistant attorney general in Attorney General Hill's San Antonio regional office, and John H. Richards is assistant chief of the AG anti-trust consumer protection division.

OLD

Dear editor:

It used to be that people saved energy in order to keep their electric light bill down, not because it was patriotic or to prove something to a bunch of Arab oil barons.

I knew a man once who even turned the light off in his living room when he was listening to three radio, back in the days before television, on the reasonable grounds that you don't need a light on to hear something. "What could be sillier," he asked, "than sitting in a brightly-lit room listening to the radio with your eyes shut?" If his bill ever went above the minimum of $1.35 he'd call the power company to see if the meter was leaking.

What brought this to mind was an article I read saying the government is working on some energy-use standards to be enforced by law, and among these would be one requiring buildings to have windows that open.

As I understand it, architects have gone wild in designing buildings with year-round "climate control" and thought they were saving energy by including windows that are sealed shut and are never intended to be opened. On the moon, where the nights are 40 degrees below freezing and the days as hot as an oven, such a building might be necessary, but on earth it seems a little odd. It's like a stairway of the eccentric woman I read about recently. She had one built in her 40-room house that went nowhere. Just wound up against a blank wall.

It seems that we're in peculiar shape when Congress has to pass a law prohibiting us from doing such things.

Nonetheless, I'm in favor of this open-window regulation, but it doesn't go far enough. It's one thing to pass a law requiring a builder to install windows that open. What I want is a law requiring a window to stay open when it's raised. I'm getting tired propping mine up with a stick.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

SCS Marks 40 Years

Forty years ago, the country faced tremendous problems brought about by erosion, floods, land damage, and violent dust storms.

On April 27, 1935, a new agency, the Soil Conservation Service, was created to combat the forces that threatened to lay waste to millions of acres of cropland. The Soil Conservation Service began working with landowners by demonstrating means of erosion control, but it became apparent that really effective conservation work was done better when landowners led the job themselves.

In 1937, President Roosevelt recommended that each state legislature enact laws permitting landowners and land occupiers to form units to be called Soil Conservation Districts. Relying to the call, all the states, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, enacted laws permitting formulation of districts.

Soil and Water Conservation Districts set out to focus attention on land and water problems on all privately owned land, develop annual and long-range programs designed to solve the problems, and to enlist all the appropriate help available from public and private sources.

Now, over 3,000 conservation districts, covering 97 percent of all privately owned lands, have formed in mutual concern to protect, conserve, and improve the world we live in.

Typically, a conservation district has five supervisors, elected by local landowners. The supervisors work with the Soil Conservation Service District conservationist and other agencies in helping the landowner apply conservation measures on his land.

More than two million landowners are voluntarily planning and applying conservation measures in local soil and water conservation districts. They are helping to control erosion, improve water supplies, prevent floods, curtail pollution, and develop recreational areas.

The National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts (NACD), organized by district leaders in 1946, is the means by which the districts make their cause known and voice heard.

The principle source of technical assistance to the districts is the Soil Conservation Service. SCS provides a district conservationist for each district to help carry out conservation programs.

The scope of the Soil Conservation Service program has expanded since establishment 40 years ago. And the Soil and Water Conservation Districts have grown beside it, bringing a better life and future to everyone.

Farmers Uncertain About Gas

Texas Farm Bureau President Carroll Chaloupka said scores of thousands of Texas irrigation farmers still don't know if they can depend on natural gas to fuel their pumps.

Chaloupka said the Federal Power Commission's handling of a curtailment plan for natural gas has created "uncertainty and confusion" among irrigation farmers.

He said the outcome of an FPC hearing, now underway in Washington, will determine whether irrigation has a No. 2 or No. 3 priority. A TFB staff member, Bill Wedemeyer, was in Washington earlier this week working with user groups that are presenting evidence at the hearing.

Chaloupka said there are 60,000 pumps in Texas fueled by natural gas which could be affected by a shortage of natural gas.

Expansion Predicted For Beef

"I believe the southern United States will eventually develop large scale production of forage finished beef."

That prediction came from Dr. C. S. Hoveland at the recent Texas Animal Agriculture Conference at Texas A&M University.

Hoveland, professor of crops at Auburn University, said he feels production of forage finished beef will increase when it becomes more economically feasible.

"Some of the problems in raising cattle on forage include uneven seasonal distribution of forage, pasture damage from hooves of animals, low digestibility of some grasses, and legumes that are not adapted to certain soils," said Hoveland.

One of the marketing problems encountered in raising forage finished beef, he noted, is a varying supply of slaughter animals.

"Winter forages are best for finishing cattle in the South," Hoveland said.

A&M Lab Serves As Animal Testing Center

Texas ranchers have a unique service available to them through the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory at Texas A&M University.

"The lab serves mainly as a test center for animal specimens to identify disease problems so that specific treatment can be administered," points out Dr. William L. Sipple, executive director of the lab.

Aphids Still Causing Damage

By Bill McCutchen

Sugar cane aphids are still causing damage in grain sorghum fields and a lot of spraying was done last week.

Beneficial insects have failed to build up to numbers needed for control because of the unusually cold weather we have had this year. The cold has been ideal for sugarcane aphid and greenbug buildup while it has been too cold for beneficial populations to multiply.

Cold weather and aphid damage combined have caused some replanting of grain sorghum in every part of the country, but as a whole I believe we are off to a pretty good start on a grain sorghum crop.

I really don't think the cold weather or greenbugs and sugarcane aphids will hurt the final yields much unless of course stands are thinned.

With everyone in the county planting in a two to three week period I am optimistic that we won't have too much of a problem this year with the sorghum midge. Johnsongrass which is the sorghum's worst host plant in the area was bit back by the freeze as well as the maize and this should delay midge buildings somewhat.

"We also help in the commerce of animals by performing various tests required for interstate or international shipment of livestock."

The lab is a central collection point for all diseased animal specimens from throughout the state so that disease outbreaks can be detected when they occur. Recent examples of disease outbreak identifications include anthrax in Central Texas and lobelia poisoning in South Texas.

"Through our study of disease specimens and overall animal health conditions, we issue warnings of seasonal diseases through veterinarians and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service," notes Sipple.

"We want all ranchers to feel that our facilities are a part of their ranching operation and to call on us and submit specimens for testing any time. Of course, specimens must be prepared and specially shipped, so most samples are submitted by local veterinarians," explains the lab director.

The lab itself has a staff of 10 professional people who meet daily to review all specimens received for that day. "This type of thorough review allows us to arrive at a diagnosis in the shortest time possible," notes Sipple. "And this is critical if we are to help livestock owners."

Lab departments include pathology, toxicology, and microbiology, with microbiology subdivided into virology, bacteriology, and serology. Each of the departments simultaneously performs various tests, examining certain components of the animal specimen. Again, this procedure leads to a rapid diagnosis, contends Sipple.

Autopsies are also performed on animals that have died within 6 to 12 hours during warm weather and within 24 hours in the winter.

"Herd health is continuing to become more critical as ranchers are facing lower market prices and higher production costs," says Sipple. "Therefore, we hope that ranchers will take advantage of the services we have to offer. We can provide information that is extremely useful in planning herd health programs, and this can be a major step in avoiding emergency situations."

The lab operates on a fee basis which provides for about one-third of its operating costs. Other costs are paid through state funds.

Vegetable Harvest In Progress... Still More Than Chicken Feed... Wheat Crop Increases.

If vegetables are one of your favorite foods, you will be happy to know that vegetable harvest is well underway in the Rio Grande Valley and other commercial areas of the state. Texas ranks number one and among the top three in many categories of commercial vegetable production, and this is the time of year when a number of crops are being harvested, cultivated, and planted.

Everything from watermelons to carrots to tomatoes is making good progress.

Cabbage harvest in the Valley is in its final stages, and supplies from the San Antonio-Winter Garden area will be available throughout the spring months. A small acreage in the Trans-Pecos should be harvested in May or June.

Carrot harvest will continue in the Valley through May. Supplies should also be available in other producing sections throughout May.

Sweet corn harvest is expected to get underway in the Valley around mid-May. Planting is underway in other sections of the state.

Cantaloupes are making good progress with harvest expected to get underway in mid-May. At Laredo, the crop is reported to be doing well, and in the Winter Garden area, the crop is planted with seeds beginning to emerge.

If you like tomatoes, there's more good news. Spring tomatoes are making excellent growth in the Valley. Most growers report good stands with good to excellent fruit.

Picking of some early fields is underway with the majority of the crop to be harvested next month and into June. Some replanting was necessary in Central Texas due to a freeze, and planting in north Texas and on the High Plains is currently in progress.

And early in May you can expect the first of the 1975 watermelon crop from South Texas. Most melons in South Texas are vining. Planting is underway in Central and East Texas as well as north Texas.

If onions are to your liking, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes that the 1975 onion crop for Texas is now forecast at 17 per cent below last year's crop. The crop is also six per cent below the March 1 projection.

Peak movement of onions should occur from now through mid-May. At Laredo, onions are being harvested. In the San Antonio-Winter Garden area, the harvest is expected to be underway in the near future.

A RETURN OF THE BACKYARD FLOCK of chickens is picking up throughout the state as people search for ways to cut food bills. But the "pin money" days of bygone years for the small backyard hen flock have long since disappeared. Poultry production is big business now in Texas.

During 1974, gross income from broilers, eggs and chickens totaled $253 million. This is six per cent less than during the 1973 marketing year, however. Broiler production in 1974 was slightly above 1973 while gross income was four per cent under 1973. Egg production was down nine per cent from 1973. Cash receipts totaled $104 million, down eight per cent from 1973. Cash receipts from chickens (other than broilers) was 10 per cent less than in 1973.

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT, here it is again, and it is worth repeating. Texas wheat crop this year is forecast at 140 million bushels. That's up 20 per cent from the Dec. 1 projection.

That's a stark contrast to the puny 1974 crop of only 52,800,000 bushels of wheat produced in Texas.

TEXAS TALK

By Skip Hobbs

Grass-Fed Beef vs. Grain-Fed Beef is one of the most often discussed topics of the agricultural industry. Maybe Texas Talk can clear the air a little. The only difference to the consumer is quality. What does quality mean? In this particular comparison, the sense of taste is the absolute test. Most of us have become used to the flavor of grain-fed beef, therefore it tastes better than meat from grass-fed cattle. This difference in taste is created primarily because of the absence of intramuscular fat (marbling) from the cuts of grass-fed beef. For this reason the meat is graded lower than grain-fed. One of the key ways to tell the difference at the meat counter is to look for USDA Choice or Prime grades. Virtually all these cuts will be from grain-fed cattle. Grass-fed meat may carry an identifying store name such as "Baby Beef", "Economy Cut", or "Budget Beef". Appearance and nutrition value of the meats are essentially the same.

SWITZERLAND

The alarm bells are ringing in Switzerland's famed clock and watch industry. Switzerland produces more timepieces than any other country in the world and the export-oriented industry is vital to the economy. But it is going through its worst crisis since World War II, and the depression is seriously worrying bankers and government officials as well as employers and workers.

JERUSALEM

Israel is about to embark on biological warfare—against a killer which is running on the country's historical and tourist landmarks. The enemy is a mysterious disease which is rapidly turning pine-covered slopes near Jerusalem into a dying forest. The pines started turning a ghostly white about four years ago and in recent months the disease has raged through hundreds of trees, disfiguring the landscape.

WASHINGTON

International drug traffickers have switched some of their operations to the mountains of Mexico and the jungles of south-east Asia to reap bigger profits in America and Western Europe. But the U.S. drug enforcement administration fears that the best-known narcotics traffic from the poppy fields of Turkey to the heroin factories of Marseille and the streets of American and European cities may spring to life again this summer.

MEXICO CITY

More and more Mexican are taking to the bottle—especially the inhabitants of this smog-laden metropolis where raw alcohol outlasts whiskey. A study published here by doctors Manuel Cabildo and Alicia Lima indicates that Mexico City now has one of the highest rates of alcoholism in the world.

PANAMA CANAL ZONE

After a year of talks, the United States and Panama are finally making visible progress towards a draft agreement on the future of the controversial U.S. controlled canal. A year ago, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger flew to Panama for a day, agreed in principle to give up sovereignty over the canal and the protective zone surrounding it, and promptly announced the dawn of a new era in relations between the U.S. and its little Central American neighbor.

ATHENS

Greece is planning tough measures to prevent antiquities being smuggled out of the country, especially during the tourist season. So far, efforts to curb the flow of treasures abroad have been ineffective and more drastic steps are needed, according to John Kontis, head of the antiquities department, who says existing legislation is both obsolete and inadequate.

VIENNA

Austria, poking like a long thumb into Communist Eastern Europe, has long been a convenient base for spies, smugglers, and gun-runners plying their risky trade between east and west. But in the last few years, Austrian authorities have had a new illicit traffic to contend with—hashish smuggling. Austria lies directly in the path between the hashish-producing lands of the Middle East and the pot parties of northern Europe.

Newspaper Publishers Face Increase In Postage

WASHINGTON — When President Gerald Ford refused to ask for appropriations for the Postal Rate Bill in his 1976 budget, he left publishers to face "increases in postage bills of up to 100 percent or even more by late summer (1976)." William G. Mullen, NNA general counsel, carried this urgent message to Capitol Hill recently, testifying before the House Subcommittee on Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government.

"Needless to say, our members, many of whom have worked hard for postal reform and for the enactment of S. 411 feel double-crossed at the turn of events since early January 1975, when the President submitted his budget to the Congress, minus the funds to implement S. 411," Mullen said.

He emphasized that, "Newspaper budgets have already been planned for next year and long-range financial plans, purchase commitments, and circulation campaigns have been mapped on the assumption that (postal) rates would be somewhat reduced due to the enactment of S. 411."

The Postal Rate Bill, enacted by Congress last summer, authorized an extended gradual phasing out period for federal subsidies to the United States Postal Service. Mullen mapped out the predicament facing publishers should new rates, forced up by the President's "backdoor veto," be set by the Postal Rate Commission.

Mullen told the House unit, "Nearly more than 50 percent of the total 36 million circulation of weekly newspapers in the United States is through the mails. For many small weeklies in rural areas, there is absolutely no other alternative to the mails. Many rural dailies also rely heavily on the mails, particularly for delivery of newspapers to subscribers residing in sparsely populated outlying areas. For these newspapers there is no economic alternative to the U.S. mails for reaching these subscribers."

And he put it into even sharper light when he said: "Now publishers must expect increases within the next few months of up to half of the total amount of increases that have been spread over the last 18 years."

BUT, Mullen told them of the subcommittee that such prohibitive rate increases "are not the only cost increases which publishers of community newspapers have had to cope with in the last few years."

He pointed out, "The cost of newspaper is about $100 a ton higher than it was three years ago, nearly a 50 percent increase; the cost of ink, aluminum and other raw materials used in producing newspapers as well as the cost of labor have all increased."

In requesting the Congress to appropriate the $411 funds despite the President's refusal to do so, Mullen said that the promise of stable postal rates and better service as envisioned in an autonomous Postal Service when the Congress enacted the Postal Reorganization Act in 1970 has not materialized.

Q. While cleaning out my desk, I came across the contract, bills and other documents relating to the remodeling job I had done on my kitchen several years ago. Can I throw these papers away or are they still important for tax reasons?

A. Keep these papers. In the event you ever sell your home, the basis of the property (generally what it cost you, increased by the cost of any improvements) will have to be computed in order to determine your gain or loss. Thus, such records should be kept for as long as they are material in determining the basis of the original or replacement property.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I understand that the IRS winds up with thousands of undelivered refund checks each year. How can this happen?

A. The usual reason for refund checks going astray is that taxpayers move and leave their forwarding address with the Postal Service. Still other taxpayers neglect to correct the label attached to their tax return. Taxpayers contacting the IRS about their refund should give the name and address as it appeared on the return, the present name and address, social security number and the type of form filed. Other IRS employees can find out almost immediately what happened to AUSTIN — Senator Bill Patman of Galveston gained 24 out of 31 Senate votes last week when he passed his bill creating a state economy committee. Promotion of economy and efficiency in state government is the purpose of the bill.

The economy committee will present important opportunities to everyone interested in state government opportunities to suggest changes that need to be made in structure as well as priority," said Senator Patman. "The committee may well devise plans to streamline state government in the interest of better serving the people of Texas at a lower cost, or at least of providing more efficient and responsive service for the tax dollars now being spent."

Other states have established similar committees, and their efforts have resulted in savings of millions of dollars."

Senator Patman said that he is especially enthusiastic about the contributions which private citizens could make to such a committee.

Members of the committee would include the Lieutenant Governor, Speaker of the House of Representatives, Secretary of State, and nine private citizens appointed by the Governor. In addition, three senators and three members of the House of Representatives would serve on the committee, making a total of eighteen members.

The committee would be required to make a final report to the next regular session of the Legislature in 1977.

Collage Wins First Place In State

A collage by Marjorie (Mrs. T.H.) Wardlaw depicting a central Texas roadside scene won the First Place State Award in Texas Garden Club, Inc. Bi-Centennial Collage competition at their state meeting last week in Austin.

The entry had won first place honors in Texas Garden Clubs District 6 competition in March and will be the Texas entry in national judging scheduled for this summer in St. Louis, Missouri.

Mrs. Wardlaw's collage was the Fleur de Lis Garden Club entry in the special Bi-Centennial competition. Entries were to represent the state in material and design. Mrs. Wardlaw's shadow-box composition showed a mockingbird above a field of wildflowers with a weathered fence post and barbed wire and a bluebonnet made of painted cedar bark in the foreground.

The Fleur de Lis Garden Club yearbook also won a first place award in Austin and will be entered in national competition. Mrs. Griffin Barrett and Mrs. Bill Kelm were yearbook chairmen.

Book Study Groups Organizing

Special interest book study groups are being formed through Friends of the Library with registration now open at the Cameron Public Library. The book study groups are designed for informal discussion of selected books in groups of six or eight. Jan Luecke, Friends president, said the book study groups would be flexible in format, generally meeting once a month at the library. Books may either be selected from the local library or through special order.

Groups will be formed according to reading interests—such as historical novels, religion, psychology, art, politics, biographies, etc.

"In one group already formed, each member reads the same book during the month and discussion centers on points of particular interest to the individual reader," Mrs. Luecke said. "Discussion often brings in related information and generally adds new dimensions to the book."

Those interested in joining a book study or discussion group should sign up by May 17 at the library.

Pimpler, Morgan To Exhibit Art At Festival

Two Cameron artists, Donald R. Pimpler and Maxie Morgan, will be exhibiting their work at the Brazos River Festival and Pilgrimage in Waco on April 26-27 along with 130 artists from all over the state.

The art show, which is housed in gay blue and yellow striped tents on the grounds of East Terrace, will feature an art auction.

For the first time, the Brazos River Art Festival will be a "juried" show. Prospective participants have had to submit pictures of their work to a Waco jury which decided whether or not they'd be allowed to exhibit.

A Happy Place for children and international food booths will also be located on the grounds of East Terrace.

The Pilgrimage tour buses will leave the parking lot of the Waco Civic and Convention Center every 15 minutes on Saturday and Sunday. An antique show will be at the Convention Center. Included in the tour will be Fort Fisher, Earle-Napier-Kinnard House built in the 1850s, Fort House built in 1868, Waco Creative Art Center art exhibit, Waco's suspension bridge, and East Terrace.

Pimpler's work includes oils and water colors. He has won the Purchase Award twice at Temple Junior College and has exhibited at various art shows throughout the state. His work is currently on display at Maxine's Boutique in Cameron and at his personal studio.

Morgan has exhibited his metal art at various art shows throughout the state. His metal art is currently on display at the Trellis in Tyler, the Vendor in Conroe, Highland Mall Art Gallery in Austin, the Backdoor Shoppe in Cameron, and at his personal shop.

The art show will be from 11-7 both days.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brock honored their daughter, Becky, at their Hanover Road home with a Chinese luncheon on her 10th birthday on Saturday.

The twelve guests and honoree were seated at a low table under a canopy of Chinese lanterns, streamers and balloons and the Chinese fare was eaten with chop sticks.

The motif was carried out in a treasure chest birthday cake from which chocolate foil covered coins and gum drop beads cascaded from the open chest to the table.

Bobby Brock performed magic tricks, after which he revealed some of the secrets and methods used by the Chinese in performing sleight of hand and magic.

Special guests were Becky's grandmother, Mrs. Jesse Brock; great aunt, Mrs. Clarence Posey; and Oaler Clark.

Education Loans

Open For Veterans

The Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco is processing applications for new education loans for veterans attending school under the GI Bill. The loans, up to a maximum of $600 in one academic year, were established by the Vietnam-era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, enacted by Congress last December.

Regional Office Director, Jack Coker, said the effective date for the loan program was January 1. However, he added that all eligible veterans, wives, widows and children will be considered for initial loans based upon the full amount of their tuition and all other costs of attendance anticipated for the entire 1974-75 academic year. This is considered to have started about September 1.

Gause News

By Wanda Lee

This past week Gause placed first in the district of the Community Improvement Program, sponsored by Texas A&M University and Texas Power & Light Company. Now preparations are being made for the regional judging scheduled for May 7. On that day an exhibit of crafts and handwork will be on display when the program is presented to the judges.

Everyone is invited to show their crafts and handwork they have made since April 1974 and March 31, 1975. The Community Improvement Program meets the first Monday of each month at 7 p.m.

Thanks to the many donations of food, bingo prizes, money, etc our spring festival at the school was a success. We made enough to pay for the flooring on Mrs. Ethel Slay's room. If you get a chance to go up to the school and see the two rooms, Mrs. Slay's and Mrs. Dorsey Wilson's have the new flooring.

Robert Redford and Mia Farrow rekindle their passionate love affair after being apart for many years in "The Great Gatsby." The movie will be shown Friday at the 77 Drive In Theatre in Cameron. F. GENE LUMPKIN

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Sometimes there's a big difference between what a salesman promises you and what you get after you sign a contract. Unfortunately, some consumers find this out only after they have obligated themselves.

Our Attorney General's Consumer Protection lawyers say that signing a contract for any item is always a serious matter, even though it may not seem so at the time. Remember, you will be legally bound by the terms of the written contract, not by the oral promises of a salesman.

To protect yourself when signing a contract, you should always read and understand everything in the paper before you sign it. If you don't understand a portion, ask questions. If the answers you get are vague or confusing, don't sign until you talk with someone knowledgeable, such as an attorney. Likewise, if a contract is for a large purchase or constitutes a major investment for you, it might be wise to have an attorney check over it before you sign.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys caution that you should never sign a contract with blank spaces. Always fill in such spaces with a circled X. This way there's no possibility that they can be filled in later, after your signature is obtained.

Don't ever sign a contract because you are being pressured to do so. And don't feel foolish for taking up a salesman's time while you read each item carefully—a reputable salesman will encourage you to do this. After all, you will be paying for everything included, so it would be foolish not to be careful!

Check to see that all charges are itemized, including finance charges, insurance charges, and interest charges (total amount and annual percentage rate), as well as the total cost of the merchandise. Be sure any down payment or trade-in allowance is subtracted from the cost of the item before other charges are added. And find out the amount of your monthly payments.

If you already have a contract with the merchant and are considering "adding on" a new purchase, think it over. If you cannot meet your payments, it's possible that you could lose not only the "added on" merchandise, but the original merchandise too.

You should realize that the merchant may sell your note to a finance company or a financial institution. If this happens, you make your payments directly to, for example, the finance company, which becomes a "holder in due course." If you have any problems or complaints about the merchandise, the finance company has no legal obligation to help you, if the seller refuses. Yet, failure to make a payment could mean that your goods are repossessed. You may never experience this problem, since most merchants stand behind their products, but it is important to understand what might happen.

You also need to check whether the merchandise is being sold "as is." If so, the seller is disclaiming any responsibility for problems you may have with it in the future.

Even though the contract seems to be in order, remember that it is only as good as the other party. Your best protection is to deal with an honest, reputable merchant.

Finally, after you are satisfied with the contract and have signed it, be sure to get a copy of it.

For help with a consumer problem, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

and then...

A caterpillar crawls along a branch. So unsightly and useless is he that at best he is scorned, at worst, exterminated.

A grain of sand, one of an infinite number, lodges within an oyster's shell. It is coarse and hard, worthless and unwanted.

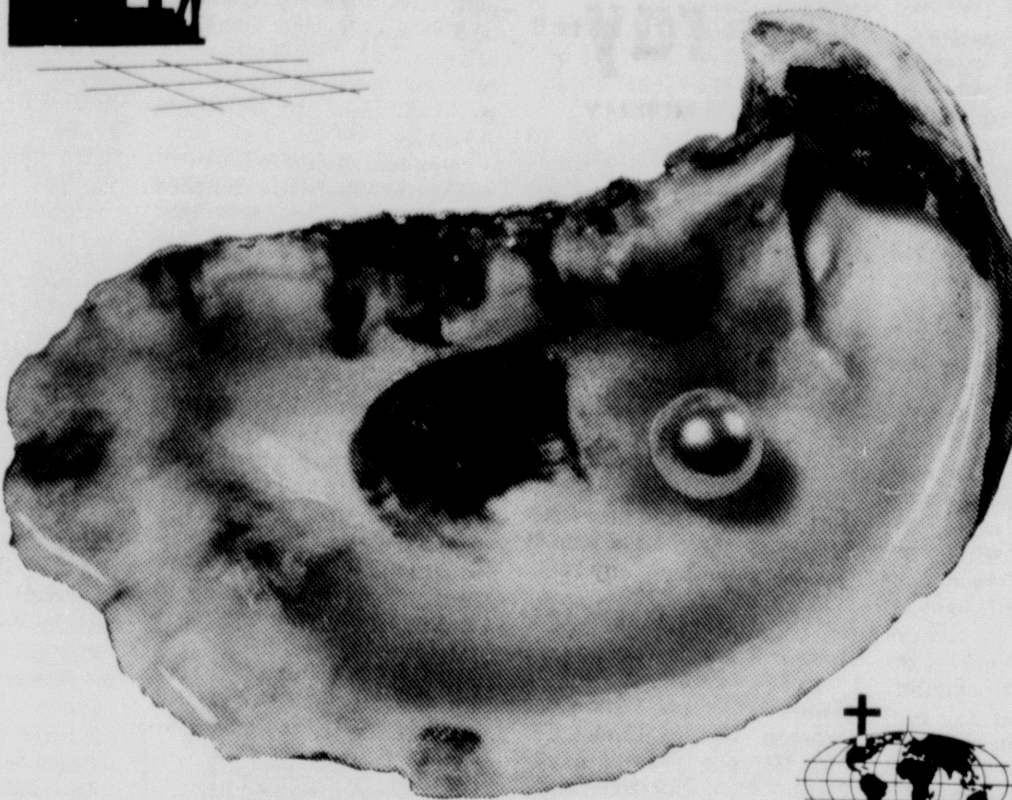

And then, there are people. They are restless, a bit lonely sometimes, and apprehensive about the future. They enter churches and speak to God.

From the cocoon, a gaily-colored butterfly emerges. People paint pictures of it; children try to claim it as their own.

From the oyster, a pale, creamy pearl is taken. It is admired, sold for a small fortune, prized.

So, God changes the lowly caterpillar and richly clothes the grain of sand. How much more can He change the lives of those who ask it of Him!

God awaits you. Come meet Him in church this Sunday.

DIVER gently pushes away an encrusted leviathan as noisy 60-ton right whale gets too close for filming. Scientists found the world's largest animals displayed a lively curiosity, but weren't aggressive, and took considerable care not to harm observers.

Vote Sought On Killing Whales

Killing of whales should be outlawed for at least the next few decades, conservationists contend.

They want delegates from 138 countries now in Geneva for the United Nations Law of the Sea Conference to vote worldwide protection for the five most endangered species: the blue, gray, right, humpback, and bowhead whales.

Fifteen nations have signed the International Whaling Convention, binding themselves to protect these almost extinct species. But any other country that buys a used whaling ship could kill all the whales it found, and it would be perfectly legal.

Purposeless Slaughter

"Unless the main whaling nations, particularly Japan and Russia, stop catching immediately, the large so-called commercial whales could reach the point of no return," warns Dr. Roger S. Payne, of the New York Zoological Society. "Some species may already have done so."

Some people eat whale meat, though more of it ends up as pet food. Mostly, the oil and other products obtained from the whales is used in manufacturing such things as margarine, lipstick, shoe polish, paint, and bath oil, the National Geographic Society says.

What Dr. Payne describes as "the madness of it all" is that other and more abundant sources are available for all these materials. The United States and Britain have placed a total ban on whale products.

"People think the heights of the whale slaughter was in the last century, when New England whalers hunted sperm whales from sailing ships," Dr. Payne observes. "Actually, the greatest ten-year kill that has ever been made was between 1960 and 1970." A three-year cruise by a square-rigged whaling ship in the 1860's netted about 37 whales—roughly one a month. Faster ships today, guided by sonar and other location gear and using cannon that fire exploding harpoons, averaged 30 times as many, killing one or two whales for every day of a voyage.

Dr. Payne may know more about the big mammals than do the whalers who hunt them. He has been observing them first-hand since 1967. With grants from the National Geographic Society, New York Zoological Society, and other organizations, the 40-year-old zoologist recently completed a five-year study of right whales off Argentina.

TV Special Slated

On April 30, a special one-hour program on whales, centering on Dr. Payne's work with the huge creatures near Patagonia's Peninsula Valdes, will be shown on CBS television.

"Magnificent Monsters of the Deep," produced by the award-winning Anglia RV of Britain, includes some of the most unusual close-ups of whale behavior ever captured on color film.

The whales are monstrous only in size, not in their actions. An adult right whale would stretch from home plate to the pitcher's mound and weigh as much as 30 full-size automobiles.

"But the world's largest animals can afford to be gentle," Dr. Payne points out. "With almost no natural enemies, they don't need to be aggressive. They can be boisterous at play, even clumsy, but they took obvious care not to harm us when we were in their midst."

"I find whales irresistibly beautiful. If they're lost to the world, nothing will arise to take their place."

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

Austin—For too long and in too many ways, state government has treated Texas cities like stepchildren at a family reunion.

But the one outstanding thing the state has done for cities came in 1967 when the Legislature gave them the right to levy a one per cent city sales tax by a vote of the people.

This came when our municipalities were strapped financially and property taxes, their only major source of revenue, were strained to the breaking point.

Very quickly the sales tax proved to be a great asset, and if any tax could ever be called "popular," this proved to be it. More than 800 cities, from the smallest to the giants, voted in the tax.

These 800 cities last year received more than $200 million in city sales taxes. For some cities the local sales tax revenue represents as much as a third of the city budget.

Quite properly, collection and administration of the city sales tax was put in the Comptroller's office. Unfortunately, at that point the rush to help the cities bogged down in bureaucracy and sluggishness.

The Comptroller at the time adopted a system of sending cities their money on a quarterly basis—anywhere from 60 to 90 days after the sales taxes were actually collected from the public by retail merchants. For instance, taxes collected by merchants in the calendar quarter of October, November and December were sent to the Comptroller at the end of January but the Comptroller wouldn't get money refunded back to the cities before late March.

These checks were so late that a few of the major cities flew people to Austin every time to wait around for their checks and fly them home to the bank.

We have now changed the system. In our first effort to speed up the payments, we got the October-December, 1974, quarter's payments out before the end of February. This was done simply by speeding up our processes all along the line and by setting an earlier cutoff date, meaning that some late payments by merchants were left over for the next payment period.

Now, starting this month, we have perfected a monthly system which I felt should have been used all along. The first round of payments totaled $16.1 million.

What causes brittle nails? Understanding how your nails grow and what causes them to crack or split helps provide a key.

Nail growth occurs from three areas: the matrix, the proximal nail fold, and the nail bed. Lamination or splitting comes from different growth rates in these areas.

Good nail growth depends on the metabolism in the nail bed. You can increase metabolism with drugs, but it is more advisable to do so with available food components.

An increase in metabolism comes to some extent after ingestion of any food component. It is greatest, however, for certain amino acids and unbalanced proteins. Unflavored gelatin is a prime example. It is an unbalanced protein; is readily available as drinking gelatin and has been shown to exert a greater metabolic increase than any other single generally accessible food component.

It has been found that drinking Knox gelatin in a glass of water by itself a half hour before eating enhances the peripheral blood flow, increases the surface temperature of the finger, and generally improves the metabolic rate of nutrient exchange in the three vital areas of nail growth.

The word ketchup (no different at all from catsup) came from the Chinese term ke-tsiap, meaning taste.
